THE INDIAN WAR.

The following was received this morning at Army Headquarters:

St. Louis, Sept. 28.—To Adjutant General U. S. A.: Gen. Sheridan has full reports from Col. Bankhead, who would start for Fort Wallace on the 27th inst. He reports Lieut. Beecher and Surgeon Moore dead, also T. W. Culver, Wm. Wilson and Lewis Farley, scouts, dead, and he gives a list of fourteen killed, besides Col. Forsythe, who has two wounds. He thinks at least seventy-five Indians were killed or badly wounded. From signs it is alleged the Indians are moving South.

Gen. Sheridan reports seven companies of the 5th cavalry on hand, ready for service, and he will keep every man at work to catch and destroy the Indians.

[Signed] W. T. SHERMAN, Lieutenant General.

From information received here concerning the instructions to General Sheridan, it is believed he will within the next two weeks make such a movement against the hostile Indians on the frontier as to put an end to the apprehensions of a general Indian war.

THE ALBAMA COMMISSION.

The Alabama delegation had an interview with the President and Secretary of War this morning, which lasted about half an hour. They were assured all necessary aid would be furnished to the State Government. In case of any transgression upon its authority, the Department Commander will be instructed accordingly and authorized to call for additional troops if necessary. The delegation are highly gratified with the success of their mission. They do not fear any serious disturbance, but think it well to have authority to call for troops. In case of necessity probably one regiment of infantry will be forwarded to Gen. Meade.

The Secretary of War, with the approval of the President, is preparing a letter to General Meade, in which the memorial of the Alabama Legislature is referred to him, and in which he is directed to take such measures as may be necessary to prevent the troubles apprehended by the Legislature, by a prompt and proper disposition of troops.

Governor Smith has no doubt his veto of the bill authorizing the election of Presidential electors by the Legislature will be sustained, and has no doubt the Legislature will pass the measures necessary to enable the people to vote for Presidential electors. The civil authorities, supported by the President's assurances and promise able to control the unruly elements and secure a peaceful election. The letter of the Secretary of War will be delivered to the Committee at ten o'clock to-morrow, when they will depart for Montgomery via Atlanta, in order to deliver the letter to General Meade.

[By Telegraph to the Pittsburgh Gazette.]

SPAIN.

LONDON, Sept. 28.—The following are the very latest reports which have been received from Spain: The city of Carthagena has been bombarded by the rebel fleet. General Prim has gone to Valencia. The rebels are gaining strength every day, while the efforts of the government to withstand the torrent are evidently becoming weaker. The portion of the army which still remains faithful to the Queen is disorganized and little dependence can be placed upon it.

PARIS, Sept. 29.—The Moniteur has the following from Spain: The city of Carthagena joins in the revolt. Marshal Parena, of the royal army, at last accounts, was completely surrounded by the insurgent troops, and is probably captured by this time. The insurrection is general throughout Spain. In a communication they inform Her Majesty that her refusal to return to Madrid, unless accompanied by her Minister Marifiern, destroys all hopes of checking the insurrection. The Queen accepted the resignations of the Conchas, and sent for the Count of Cheste to form a new ministry. The Queen also summoned a Council of State to meet at San Sebastian.

LONDON, Sept. 29—10 P. M.—The following news has been received from Spain to-night:

CITY AND SUBURBAN.

Meeting at Hare's Hotel.

The Republicans of the Fourth ward held a large and interesting meeting at Hare's Hotel, Liberty street, foot of Fifth avenne, last evening. A stand had been erected on the sidewalk in front of the hotel for the accommodation of the speakers, officers of the meeting and reporters of the press. A band of music was in attendance, and when the hour arrived for calling the meeting to order the street in front and for a considerable distance above and below the hotel was a dense mass of human beings. Notwithstanding the immense crowd the meeting was orderly and the audience unusually attentive, presenting in that respect a a striking contrast to the meeting held the evening previous at the St. Charles Hotel.

The meeting was called to order by Col. W. A. Herron, who announced the following officers:

President—C. W. Robb.

Vice Presidents—Alex. Speer, Alex. Kiskadden, Andrew Jackman, Col. William Robinson, John Graff, Westley Kerr, Alex. Campbell, J. Ascheim, Henry Hays, W. F. Robb and Josiah Cohen.

Secretaries—Reporters of the Republican Press.

Mr. Robb, on taking the chair, in a brief address, thanked the meeting for selecting him to preside, after which he introduced Prof. Pope, who cheered the audience with a song entitled the "Democratic Rooster." He was compelled to sing a second time before the meeting would allow him to leave the stage.

The Chairman then introduced Gen. John F. Farnsworth of Illinois, who addressed the meeting at considerable length. He held that the issue before the people in the present contest, was the same that was decided by the ballot in 1864, and by the bayonet in 1865. The question was whether we should have peace or war. The speaker then took up the speech of Frank Blair, and dissected it in a most thorough manner. He discussed the reconstruction measures as adopted by Congress in a masterly style. He held that Congress alone has power under the Constitution to provide civil governments for all territory of the United States, not having organized State governments, and that when Andrew Johnson by proclamation and otherwise attempted to set up State governments in the States, lately in rebellion, it was a usurpation of power not delegated to him by the Constitution, and that Andrew Johnson and the Democratic party were responsible for the present disaffection in the South. The Constitution provides that the United States shall make laws for the government of Territories, and shall guarantee to every State a Republican form of government, and Congress being the law making power of the Government alone had the right to provide government for the conquered States. The statement of Mr. Blair, as published in the Pittsburgh Post, "that the Supreme Court decided the reconstruction acts of Congress unconstitutional," he said was false. That the only case brought before the Supreme Court, in which the constitutionality of the reconstruction acts was involved, were the cases from Mississippi and Georgia, in both of which the Court had refused to take jurisdiction.

The speaker then discussed the financial question at considerable length, completely refuting the arguments of Frank Blair, and in doing so "nailed" several of Frank's misstatements. He said so far as he was concerned his financial policy was an honest one. He was in favor of paying the last cent of the debt according to the contract under which it was contracted. The charge of extravagance as made by the Democrats upon the Republican party was without foundation, he said. He contended that no government had ever been more judiciously administered since the first government was created, so far as Congress was concerned. The Freedmen's Bureau, about which Mr. Blair complained so bitterly, had, instead of costing the government and the tax-payers of the North an enormous sum of money, been indirectly a source of revenue to the national treasury. It cost the government less than ten million a year, and to support it a tax had been levied upon cotton, the product of the freedman's labor, from which a revenue of over sixty millions had been received. The expenses of the army were not, as Mr. Blair said, one hundred and fifty millions, but only thirty millions. And instead of an army sixty thousand, we had but thirty thousand men, which we found amply sufficient to guard the traitors and fight the Indians at the same time. He followed Mr. Blair's address to the end, refuting every point in it with the most convincing argument.

At the conclusion of his remarks, Mr. Pope was called upon for another song, and responded with the "Political Miller and his three sons."

Hon. Mahlon Chance, of Ohio, was next introduced, and made an able and eloquent address. He is a natural orator, and is gifted with a most powerful and musical voice. Notwithstanding the lateness of the hour, he held the crowd until after eleven o'clock, and kept them in a perfect blaze of enthusiasm.

A "Taking" Speaker.

After General Blair had addressed the Democratic gathering in front of the St. Charles Hotel on Monday night, one Mr. Jones, hailing from some district unknown to the audience, mounted the rostrum and proceeded to deliver himself of an intensely honest and patriotic address. He was in favor of honesty in all things, even in politics. He didn't take any bonds during the war, (because he couldn't get his hands on them) believing they were not a safe investment, but it was honesty now to pay every dollar of the debt in greenbacks. The drift of the learned gentleman's remarks led all his hearers to look upon him as the "honestest hindividual" they had ever heard talk; but the sequel to our story will expose the hypocrisy of his "taking" style. He retired to his room at the St. Charles to find the gentleman assigned quarters with him sound asleep. Carrying his "taking" style into practical use, he proceeded to take everything in the room. He had spoken too long, for the want of a watch, so he appropriated his sleeping partner's time-piece. He needed something to illustrate the "carpet-bagger" on his next political effort in the glorious cause of the Democracy, so he took the man's well-filled satchel. He needed boots wherein to travel off, so he finished his job by drawing on his victim's patent leathers and leaving his own seedy brogans behind. Having another engagement to address a Democratic meeting he took a hurried departure, forgetting to stop and see the clerk to settle the "little bill" he had contracted. The orator found himself suddenly introduced to two of Mayor Blackmore's police, at the Union Depot yesterday morning, just as he was about taking his departure for the East. He was brought to the tombs, stripped of his plunder and permitted to depart, as the patriotic Democrat whom he had robbed refused to make information against him. Mr. Jones will speak at the Battery some night this week in order to discover to the masses how easily Radical leaders steal from the Government Treasury. Gentlemen with good gold watches are expected to attend, but they will be wise to leave their repeaters at home. So much for the speaker who followed General Blair at the great demonstration on Monday night.

The Pennsylvania Central Railroad.

EDITORS GAZETTE: Having occasion to travel a good deal over our western railroads, and taking a pride in all our improvements both general and local, permit me through your valuable sheet to present to your thousands of readers my impressions from personal observation. Of the policies of different corporations in which as Pittsburghers we should all take a deep interest, take the policy of the directors of that magnificent railroad, the Pennsylvania Central, for instance, so much abused, but not by the travelling community, for sins peculiar to all corporations. From Pittsburgh to Philadelphia there is not a station at which you will not find a handsome station-house, more than ample for the comfort and convenience of the residents in its vicinity for ten years to come, while its hotels at Altoona and Pittsburgh are models in their line. One thing can truly be said of this company, whatever they do is well done, and the result is that property along the line of this road for twenty miles is worth twice as much as that of any other road in our knowledge for that distance from Pittsburgh, and it pays the company. Look, if you please, at the accommodation trains in the morning, bringing in hundreds of busy men, merchants, manufacturers, clerks and laborers from distances varying from four to twenty miles, and the expense of travelling one year would not keep a horse for six months. The inducements held out to settlers along this road has led hundreds of our citizens to remove to the country for the sake of economy of living alone, not taking into account the advantage to be derived from pure air, pure water and a pure atmosphere. Now, Messrs. Editors, our conclusion is that if all the railroads centering in the two cities would do as the Pennsylvania Central has done, namely, build commodious station-houses along their respective roads instead of erecting a coal shed for a station-house, to be cut to pieces by whittlers in a few months, it would pay them handsomely, because it would beget travel.

Directors of all roads should learn that just in proportion as they advance the comfort and convenience of the travelling public they increase the popularity and favor of their route, and enhance the value of their stock in deriving increased revenue from passenger traffic. More anon.

ADOLPHUS.

Rally in South Fayette.

A large and enthusiastic meeting of the Republicans of South Fayette was held at the School House near Walker's Mills, on Monday night, and organized under the officers of the Grant and Colfax Club, as follows:

President—Wm. H. McEwen. Vice President—J. W. Boyce. Secretaries—Samuel Alexander and J. W. Nesbitt.

David T. Watson and S. M. Raymond, Esqs., of the Pittsburgh bar, were present and delivered able and well-timed speeches. Mr. Watson spoke particularly of the powers of Congress to reconstruct the Southern States, and Mr. Raymond of the "greenback" theory of the Democracy and the candidates before the people. The "Burtt" dodge was handled without gloves. Great enthusiasm prevailed.

Sixteenth Ward Nominations.

The following are the Republican nominations in the Sixteenth ward for members of council and ward officers:

Select Council—Robert Watson, Samuel McKinley.

Common Council—Roland H. Smith, Samuel King.

School Directors—A. B. Boal, for 3 years; Thomas Merkell, for 3 years; John Woolslayer, for 2 years; Geo. Neisemhaler, for 2 years; John Gangwisb, for 1 year; Wm. Robb, for 1 year.

Alderman—Townsend A. Adams, C. D. White.

Assessor—Thomas Merkell.

Judge of Elections.—Noah G. Craig.

Inspector—Samuel King.

Return Inspector—Henry Stork.

Constable—Mathias Buruker.

GEORGE WILKES has a standing offer o several thousand dollars on Pennsylvania even---no takers. The Dix letter has been a new wet blanket on the faithful. One wag proposed to put up a pile that Kentucky would not give ninety thousand to the rebel ticket. "I would not touch it," was the reply—"there is no telling where the devil this stampede will stop." The uneasy feeling among the Irish Catholic Democracy is another symptom. The refusal of the Irish People, of New York, a weekly which circulates more heavily than any other excepting the New York Ledger, to support Seymour, followed by the loud growls of the great Irish Catholic Freeman's Journal have created quite a stir. Much as we have been indisposed to believe that any considerable portion of that class of our adopted citizens could be brought to vote against the leaders who have gulled them so long, that contingency does not seem to be so remote. Now the tide is all against Seymour, and there is neither inducement to spend money nor to risk jail in his behalf. There is nothing so dangerous as the habit of false calculations before elections. Men may commit mistakes; these are natural; but when Democratic papers deliberately misstate figures, and hide the weakness of their own cause, they tempt their credulous followers into the most damaging cources. Hence the heavy losses to honest Democrats who put up their money on Maine.

THE St. Paul (Minnesota) Press says: "Ex-Governor Orr, of South Carolina, who is now in this city, has been giving some of the leading Democrats here a piece of his mind on the bungling way the Democracy have been managing matters of late. To one of them, who was a delegate to the Tammany Convention, he said that the nominations of Seymour and Blair were both great mistakes; Seymour, because he represented impracticable and obsolete ideas, and Blair, on account of his revolutionary letter. Besides, Blair was a military man, and the Democracy set out with the idea of having a great civilian statesman, and they should have been consistent in that idea. Pendleton was equally objectionable on account of his identity with old worn-out policies. If the Democrats had nominated Chase, the Governor said, his name, so long identified with the abolition of slavery, would have enabled them to carry every Southern State. Now they might possibly carry Georgia and Alabama; the rest would all go for Grant."

The Pittsburgh Gazette.

DAY-DAWN.

Between the dawning and the day,
Before the rising of the lark,
The May-bloom glistened in the dark;
And all the land in shadow lay
Between the dawning and the day.

Between the dawning and the day,
The wet wild flowers in thine hair
Shed a soft rain of honey there;
I stooped to kiss the drops away
Between the dawning and the day.

Between the dawning and the day
The wind fell and the thunder ceased,
The red light came up from the east,
As my dear love a-dying lay
Between the dawning and the day.

Between the dawning and the day
I knew the silence was not sleep,
But death,—and yet I could not weep:
I could not even kneel and pray
Between the dawning and the day.

But when the bloom is on the May,
And scent from wet wild flowers rare
Comes floating on the twilight air,
And sweetest face and fragrant hair
My bitter tears dry not away,
Between the dawning and the day.

—The German Tanners of Chicago gave a grand ball and banquet on Monday evening.

—Ralph Waldo Emerson, the philosopher-poet, has six new lectures ready for this season.

—Hon. Henry Stanberry is speech-making in Ohio, making ardent rebel speeches.

—A statue of Commodore Perry is to be unveiled at New York soon, with appropriate ceremonies.

—The Hon. Henry Wilson spoke to a really immense throng on Saturday night, in Philadelphia.

—General Adam King and General Torbert are both Republican candidates for Congress in Maryland.

—The Meadville Republican calls Frank Blair "the nominal tail but actual head of the Democratic ticket."

—Bateman's French troupe is playing La Grande Duchesse and La Belle Helene at the National Theatre in Cincinnati.

—To-morrow Mrs. Abraham Lincoln will sail for Europe. Mr. and Mrs. Robert Lincoln will be in New York to see her off.

—Rev. Robert Collyer, the well known Unitarian preacher of Chicago, has had a new church built, and will use it next Sunday.

—Lord Lytton is odiously compared with the other members of the English Parliament, and pronounced the ugliest man there.

—The loss at the burning of the American Pottery Works at Peoria, Illinois, was $125,000, the insurance on which was but $47,350.

—A little four year old child was burned to death in Chicago on Sunday afternoon. She was at the house of her uncle, and her parents live in Davenport, Iowa.

—With the Central Tanners, the Grant Hussars and the Second Ward Grant Club, Pittsburgh will be well represented at the great Philadelphia Convention.

—A photograph of the genial humorist, Mark Twain, was taken when he was in Cleveland, and admirers of the funniest man of the decade can get them.

—The Miss Hurlburt, of Susquehanna, New York, from whose body during the past ten years at least one thousand pins and needles have been extracted, is dead.

—"Starved at Belle Isle" is the inscription on a well wrought granite stone in the cemetery in Brownington, Vermont, which marks the resting place of C. P. Chamberlain.

—R. P. King, of the well known firm of King & Baird, printers in Philadelphia, died on Sunday. Mr. King was one of the most widely known and respected citizens of that place.

—The Third-party men may decide at once to which of the prominent parties they will join themselves, for their old leader, George Francis Train, has withdrawn from the canvass in favor of Grant and Seymour.

—The Russian Commissioners who visited Colt's pistol factory last year, have sent to the Superintendent, who showed them around the establishment, a handsome silver tobacco box, lined with eighteen karat gold.

—Anna Dickinson's home is a small, simple, three-story house in Locust street, Philadelphia, neatly kept, and plainly though tastefully furnished, where, by her labor, she supports her mother, sister, and younger brother.

—There are some pious thieves in Philadelphia, and one of them robbed the Church Home in that city of a bible, a prayer book, book of record, writing desk and a portrait of one of the lady managers. We hope he profitted by them.

—The old Union Volunteer Refreshment Committee has taken charge of National Hall in Philadelphia, and will dispense refreshments to the delegates to the great mass Convention in Philadelphia, throughout Thursday and Friday.

—The Ohio at Cincinnati has been on the rampage, having come within less than a foot of overflowing the banks. Gilmore street people were getting scared, as they always do when there are forty feet in the channel, but their scare is over now.

—The New Haven Register (Dem.) trots out a rooster at the head of a dispatch from Maine, setting the Republican majority at 18,586. Mistaken rooster! Thinks he's laid an egg and is all ready to cackle. How disgusted he'll be when he turns round and finds it isn't an egg.—Hartford Post.

—The banking house of Duncan, Sherman & Co., New York, was robbed on Friday of a box containing $2,000 in English coins. The box was taken from the counter by a man who was seen to carry it off by several persons, but as they thought he was connected with the banking house, no alarm was given.

—The authorities at Amherst College are making determined efforts to break up the practice of "hazing" freshmen. Recently a number of sophomores, who were detected in having subjected a freshman to personal indignities, were suspended for a long period and required to beg pardon of the faculty and the injured student.

—We understand that two hundred is the strength of the Pittsburgh delegation to the Philadelphia Convention. These two hundred have to travel, to get to their destination, some fifteen hours. New York is five times the size of Pittsburgh, and is but three hours from Philadelphia; her delegation will number 5,000, so the proportion is exactly the same.

—The advantage of having a watch which strikes the hours was experienced by a gentleman in New York a few evenings since. As he was entering Niblo's Theatre his watch was taken. There were several persons around him, and he said: "Gentlemen, I have lost my watch. If you will keep quiet it will strike in one minute." The thief started for the door and was captured.

—If Allegheny has any more crossings on hand ready to be put down we don't believe a better place for one could be found than on Federal street, in front of the gate leading into the yard of the Fort Wayne depot. During wet weather the condition of that spot is disagreeable and disgraceful, and a little attention shown by the city fathers here would probably be appreciated by more persons than at any other crossing in the city.

—Yesterday we saw three policemen, not on the Strand, but on Fifth avenue; they walked abreast down that fashionable thoroughfare and immediately in front a man trundled a dirty wheelbarrow. The wheelbarrow kept the middle of the sidewalk and the policemen seemed mightily amused at the disgusted way in which other pedestrians got out of the way of the vehicle. There was not the slightest excuse for the barrow being there, for the street was dry and the law forbids it, but the policemen did'nt seem to care; evidently their orders do not compel them to arrest all wheelbarrows found on the sidewalks.

—Erie is having a grand time to itself, all about smoking. One correspondent of the Dispatch saw a young girl borrow a cigar from a young man and take a whiff of it; he immediately wrote to that paper an article as much au Parton as he could, denouncing Erie young ladies in general for indulging in the vile and disgusting habit of smoking. Another correspondent answered him so well that he came back snarling and smarting, not to prove his first assertion, but to accuse the new correspondent of being a boy, who oughtn't to smoke. From this distance the thing seems absurd enough, but it must nevertheless be disagreeable to the really elegant society of Erie to see such false notices of themselves and their customs going about the country, enforced by a characteristic police paper picture.

A Texas Affray—Fatal Duel on Horseback.

The Corpus Christi Advertiser has from a correspondent these particulars of a bloody and fatal affray which took place on the west side of the river, above Oakville, on the 22d ult., between Mr. Henderson Williams and Sic Brown, about some beeves that were turned into a herd against the wish of Mr. Williams. The latter claimed authority over said beeves, as partly his own and partly those for whom he held agencies:

Some angry words occurred at first, which culminated in the drawing of weapons, which were heavy dragoon six shooters. Both parties being mounted, at each successive shot they charged up closer to their dreadful work. The firing was rapid, and the combatents became enveloped in the smoke of their weapons, which lapped together on the last round. Mr. Brown's firing was wild, owing no doubt to the fact that he received a mortal centre shot from William's first fire, although he sat on his horse firmly, until shot the third time through the body, which, centering the heart, he fell a corpse on the instant. Williams was unhurt, but his horse was shot in the head, and was fractious and unruly during the fight. Both parties had numbers of well armed friends on the ground, but no assistance or interference was offered, and the issue was fairly and squarely tested. Both men were undoubtedly brave to the last inch, such as would do honor to any cause, right or wrong. But it is a sad, very sad thing, indeed, that men forty years of age must draw their weapons to decide questions of property.

The Durand, (Wis.,) Times of the 18th gives the following narrative of a sorrowful accident involving the loss of life: "A serious and lamentable accident occurred in Pepin on Saturday last, whereby a young man named Aaron Fuller, aged sixteen years, son of John Fuller, of that village, lost his life. He had gone some three miles from home on a squirrel hunt in company with a cousin, Ira Fuller. The latter, it seems, had climbed a tree in which the squirrels had built a nest. He reached his hand into the nest—a hole in the tree—and pulled out a squirrel, which he shot with his revolver, while holding him by the tail. Another squirrel was pulled out in the same way, but was fired at with quite a different result, for the ball, instead of hitting the squirrel, hit his cousin, who was standing under the tree, the ball striking him near the region of the heart. He was taken to his home, and, after much suffering, died the next day, living about twenty-four hours from the time he was shot. The funeral services were held on the Monday following. It was indeed a sad affair, and should serve as a warning to boys to be more careful in the handling of fire-arms."

The Stuttgart Illustrated Gazette publishes six spirited engravings of imaginary scenes from the meetings of the New York Sorosis. No. 1 represents the ladies smoking cigars and meerschaums, with their feet on the table and generally in positions more comfortable than decorous, and discussing the news of the day; No. 2, the ladies treating their friends at the bar, a lady performing as bar-keeper in the most approved style; No. 3, the ladies lounging at the windows and impertinently staring at a modest gentleman passing by; No. 4, a convivial scene, the ladies toasting somebody, and evidently half "seas over;" No. 5, the more venerable members of the Sorosis at the card table, while the younger ones are playing billiards; No. 6, a monthly meeting or the club, every member screaming for the floor and the President in despair.

RIVER NEWS.

The River continues to recede rapidly at this point with seven and a half feet in channel by the Monongahela pier marks last evening. The weather yesterday was clear and pleasant, and seemingly settled.

There has not been a single arrival since the date of our last report with the exception of the regular local packets. The Julia No. 2, for Zanesville, and J. N. McCullough for Cincinnati, were the only departures.

The Economist, Capt. J. H. Porter's new boat, is now at the wharf, and will at once commence loading for the Arkansas River. She is an odd looking specimen of marine achitecture, but is no doubt well adapted for the trade for which she was constructed. The most remarkable feature about her is the fact that she only draws eight inches, light.

The Grey Eagle, Capt. C. L. Brennan, is the regular packet for Parkersburg to-day, leaving at noon.

The Glendale, from St. Louis, is among the first boats due, having left Cincinnati some days since.

The towboat Oil Valley arrived from Oil City yesterday with 2,500 barrels crude oil in tow.

The Glasgow, Capt. Andrew Robinson, is the regular Express packet for Cincinnati and Louisville.

The Bellevernon, Capt. J. J. Darragh, is filling up steadily for St. Louis, and passengers and shippers should bear this in mind.

The towboat Baltic ran aground near Lagrange, seven miles below Steubenville, during a heavy fog on Sunday night; and for a time, so critical was she situated, that it was feared she would break in two. She succeeded in getting off, however, without sustaining any serious injury.

Oil City telegrams report twenty-four inches in the channel at that point yesterday.

—The following named tow-boats got off yesterday: Lioness, Hornet, Niagara, Tiger, J. S. Neal, and Mary Ann.

—The Portsmouth Times says: The bottoms along the Scioto will be overflowed, and the farmers thereon will, it is feared, lose their entire crops. The flood will cause immense destruction.

—We extract the following resume of the proceedings of the late Steamboatmen's Convention at Louisville, from the Cincinnati Gazette, of Monday: It was a matter of regret during the session of the Union Association of Steamboat Owners and Captains, last week, at Louisville, that Cincinnati was wholly unrepresented. Perhaps the feeling of some members might be better expressed by a stronger word than regret, though we believe that word conveys the sentiment of a majority of the members. Mr. F. W. Gould, upon taking the Chair as President of the Association for the coming year, siad that "he had been of the opinion that this was a meeting of great importance, but as neither Cincinnati nor Pittsburgh had taken any steps toward being represented, he concluded that he might have been mistaken, and that he had attached more importance to it than it deserved." What a rebuke, and how delicately worded! Here was a full delegation all the way from New Orleans. Here, also, was represented every line of steamboats centering at St. Louis—more than a hundred thousand tuns of carrying capacity. Memphis, Nashville, Louisville, Jeffersonville and New Albany were all represented. But Cincinnati—the owner of more steamboat stock than other city in the west: the city having more steamboat interest at stake than any other; a city which could well afford, for her own sake, to pay the whole expense of improving the navigation of the Ohio river to the mouth, including the building of the new canal at Louisville—this city failed to send even a man to represent her at a meeting where the representatives of other cities named stood ready and were holding out their hands to assist her.

It has been a complaint of steamboatmen for two years or more that they have been making no money. Capt. Geo. Kirk, of New Orleans, stated that after many years steamboating, should he be called from life next day, he would leave his family nothing but his clothes. How many of our steamboatmen, were they to confess the truth, could say the same thing! To arrive at the cause of all this, and to find a remedy, were some of the objects of the Association. A committee was appointed to deliberate on the subject. They reported the causes to be, chiefly, "increased tunnage, the depressed condition of the Southern States, the increased facilities of railroads, the inefficient system of agencies, and excessive taxation to which steamboats are subjected." In the discussion of the report some facts were brought out that do not appear as causes in the report. It was regretted that there was no data at hand upon which a report could be based on the subject of the comparative tunnage of 1860 and 1868 on western waters. It was believed by one well informed gentleman that such a report would have shown that there had not been an increase of tunnage. If this is correct, then increased tunnage could have had nothing to do with the cause of the decrease in steamboat business. Another gentleman stated that there was more freight moving on the Mississippi river than was ever known before, and stated that sixteen loaded steamers and barges had left St. Louis for New Orleans the previous week. It was agreed, also, the railroads could not compete with river navigation in carrying freight. This leaves but two points to operate as causes for the "present depression condition of steamboat interests"—the inefficient system of agencies, and excessive taxation. Mr. Gould believed that the whole reason for the "depression" was in the steamboatmen, and that the remedy lay within themselves. He said that steamboatmen were noted for "cutting each others' throats" in business matters. Colonel Bryson said the government tax on tunnage on inland rivers was the same as that on the high seas. Many—very many—taxes which the Government, the States, cities and corporations levied on steamboats, were enumerated by different gentlemen, all of which are unknown to railroads, or to any other class of business. The committee suggested, as the most effectual remedies, the sustaining of the different local associations, the appointment of Superintendents for such, and the practice of rigid economy. These measures would have the effect of producing harmony of action, which would prevent competition between the steamboats themselves, and render their influence more powerful with legislators. The Association declared in emphatic words against any change of the present steamboat law, in case the bill drafted by it at its session of last October could not become a law without material alteration. This action was in reference to the sustitute for that bill, prepared by Mr. Crawfort, and pending. As an indication of their earnestness, each member of the Association pledged himself to pay his proper proportion of any expense that might be necessary to secure the passage of the original bill. As a measure of economy, the Association recommended the adoption, on all steamboats plying the Western waters, of what is called the restaurant system of feeding passengers, declaring that "this system has proved in practice a complete success in saving the leaks common to a passenger steamer, in saving of general expenses of the cabin, in profit to stewards, and in the approbation of the traveling public." It was the opinion of one gentleman that it would be the means of securing a better class of stewards, and that no man was fitted to be steward on a first class steamboat, who was not capable of conducting a first class hotel.

Perhaps the ablest report made by any committee to the Association is the one in which Cincinnati is now most directly interested—that "on the best mode of proceeding to prevent railroad companies from further obstructing navigation." That report was adopted with such unanimity, and with such earnestness, as to leave no doubt but that the recommendation with which the report closes—to "continuously, insistingly urge redress, till success crowns their efforts"—will be carried ont. As the closing sentence was read, it seemed to have the force of prophecy: "That which one Congress can do, another Congress can undo."

Gold closed in New York yesterday at 141¾.

THE DEATH is announced of Hon. GEO. W. SUMMERS, a very prominent citizen of West Virginia, who died at Charleston, on the 19th.

COPIES of the Election laws of Pennsylvania, digested and arranged, with notes and judicial decisions, can be had gratuitously by applying to the Republican Headquarters in this city, or to either of the Senators or Representatives of Allegheny county.

MR. PENDLETON denounces as a forgery the letter imputed to him, which urged his Texan friends to insist upon their unimpaired right of voting at the Presidential election. We rejoice to learn something good of so thorough-faced a politician as Young Greenbacks.

THE Spanish situation grows desperate for the Bourbon Queen who still clings to her sceptre over a nation which detests her policy and abhors her personal vices. If let alone by their uneasy neighbors beyond the Pyrenees, Spain is in a fair way to inaugurate momentous reforms in her public affairs.

GEN. MCCLELLAN is advertised for the Pennsylvania stump, in the nominal interest of SEYMOUR and BLAIR. Having BLAIR already, our Republicans do not need Little MAC's aid to secure the vote of the Keystone. Moreover, we have also MCCALMONT. Insatiate WALLACE! would not one such suffice?

HIGH authority maintains that "the masses of the Southern people love the Union and would live or die for it, if let alone." How bitterly then, in the coming days, they will curse the mad folly of their leaders, the desperate demagogues who are playing another game of secession and anarchy with SEYMOUR and BLAIR for their facile tools!

THE Democrats of Pittsburgh in convention assembled yesterday, resolved that it was inexpedient to nominate candidates for the municipal offices. They might have added to their resolution "and unnecessary," as they have not the remotest chance of making any combination to defeat the popular Republican nominees at the approaching election.

SECRETARY SCHOFIELD pledges to Alabama all the needful Federal aid for the preservation of tranquility within her borders, and the engagements of the War Office are held to be just and right, by the President and his Cabinet. We are gratefully unable to congratulate SEYMOUR and BLAIR upon any great amount of "help" they may be getting from Mr. JOHNSON's administration.

LET NO READER fail to peruse every line of the evidence adduced in the trial now progressing in the Court of Quarter Sessions against the policemen of Mayor BLACKMORE, who committed the late gross outrage on a respectable lady of this city, subjecting her to awful abuse for the crime of being in the streets unprotected after "a certain hour" of night. We reserve our comments for a future occasion, not wishing to forestall the action of the jury in determining the measure of the guilt of the accused.

RECONSTRUCTION AND ITS REBEL FOES.

It is impossible to reconcile the conflicting theories, and the inconsistencies of fact, which have been promulgated in public speeches by distinguished Democratic leaders. Gen. BLAIR does not hold with his unsuccessful competitor for the nomination, Gen. EWING, nor do either of them concur with Mr. JOHNSON's late Attorney General, HENRY STANBERY. It grieves us also to add that neither of these gentlemen state their facts precisely alike, either to each other or to the actual truth, and that Mr. BLAIR, conspicuous in his official position, maintains an equal superiority, over those of his compeers above named, in the dashing soldiership with which he marshals his battalions of falsehood to attack the truth of history.

Our readers are aware that two versions of Gen. BLAIR's speech in this city, on Monday night, have been given to the world—one version being the correct one, and reporting his literal utterances, appearing only in this journal, and the other being a more carefully guarded oration, composed by the speaker in the privacy of his hotel, before an audience of two or three reporters only, on the day preceding, and given to all the press of this city in advance. We judged it expedient, not a little in view of Gen. BLAIR's manifest desire that he should not be literally reported, to provide for our columns a copy of the spoken address, leaving the prepared manuscript, of the speech that was not made, for our neighbors. The results of our wise precaution are eminently satisfactory to our friends and to the public generally, Gen. BLAIR's especial supporters being alone dissatisfied with the bold assurance of his attempt to palm off upon them an unspoken composition.

We propose to criticize such of his arguments, and the statements of alleged fact from which he deduces them, as prominently arrest our attention. In doing so, we may incidentally allude to the marked discrepancies between what he wrote and what he actually said.

And, first, General BLAIR, in common with the entire mob of Democratic orators, insists that the provisional reconstruction accomplished by President JOHNSON, and which Congress in due time repudiated, was Constitutional in method, ample in scope, universally acceptable in fact, and satisfactory to all parties, leaving no traces of rebel heresy uneffaced, and securing to Loyalty and Peace perpetual guarantees. General BLAIR insists that General GRANT concurred in this provisional policy, as applied in the case of North Carolina. Gen. EWING went further in his Zanesville speech, and stated that Congress and the entire Republican party were at one time committed to the finality of the same Presidential reconstruction. Attorney General STANBERY goes still beyond this, and argues that this method of reconstruction, concurred in by the people of the Northern States, completely satisfied all the legal and constitutional conditions. To all and each of which positions of these eminent Democratic expounders of the Constitution, we reply—

First—The loyal masses of the North, comprehending as well Gen. GRANT as the great body of the Republican party, (there being many exceptions to the latter, in which we desire to be reckoned,) acquiesced in Mr. LINCOLN's policy of reconstruction upon certain conditions, as follows: that Slavery should be considered forever abolished; that the doctrine of Secession should be perpetually abjured; that the personal (not the political) rights of the citizen should be everywhere equally recognized, irrespective of race, color or previous condition; that the rebel war debt should never be paid or even recognized by either State or National authority; that the Federal war debt, including the obligations for pensions, &c., should ever be held sacredly binding; and that the right of representation and of suffrage should be held indissolubly an unit, defining absolutely thereby the political status of citizens. These were frankly proclaimed by Congress to be the conditions, complete and final, upon which it would concede the sanction of the law-making power of the Union to the extra-constitutional assumptions of the Executive. Loyalty, victorious and supremely powerful, exacted no other conditions, imposed upon a crushed rebellion no other terms. In the same hour and with equal frankness, it warned the vanquished that the rejection of these terms would ensure the stipulation of other terms much less acceptable.

Second—Alone of the eleven States, Tennessee accepted all these conditions, and she was thereupon immediately restored to all her rights in the Union. The other States gave only their partial assent; they agreed to the abolition of slavery, and the XIIIth amendment therefore stands a part of the Constitution to-day; their new State Constitutions, made under the President's auspices, also abjured secession,—and here they stopped. Why? Because, just at that moment, Presidential reconstruction, in the policy of Mr. JOHNSON, changed front, and assumed the phase of a bitter hostility to any interposition of the Congressional authority. Because the law-making department saw fit to impose these additional terms, all of which we have above specified, the President—who had strangely become transmuted from the vindictive prosecutor of treason to the ardent friend of treason unpunished; whose ambitious purpose, of leading back into the National councils all the hosts of the late rebellion, and of maintaining them there as his own personal adherents, were about to be frustrated by the wisdom of the people—this Executive cast off all disguises and, leaping over the chasm between Loyalty and Rebellion, sprang to the head of the conquered Confederacy and announced himself the champion of their rightful resistance to "Congressional usurpations." Was it to be wondered at that Rebellion once more reared its encouraged head, and that, under such a tempting leadership as that of the President of the Nation, the Southern people should feel all their treasonable hopes revived? Their rejection of the remaining conditions specified above, (and embodied in the XIVth amendment,) was prompt and stubborn. Thus was the issue again made between Loyalty and Rebellion, between the constitutional powers of the law-making braneh of the victorious Union gevernment, and the refusal of the late rebels, sustained by our own Executive, to submit to those powers as exercised.

Third—At this point, Congress, the loyal North, the Republican party and General GRANT found themselves instantly and compactly united. From that moment, there has been but one question, and while they were on one side, the other was held by ANDREW JOHNSON, the Southern rebels, the Northern Copperhead Democracy, and by none else.

The power of the Union ought not to be and has not been thus resisted successfully. Congress immediately resumed the function imposed upon it by the Constitution. It swept away Mr. JOHNSON's assumptions and his bastard creations with a word; it took measures for bringing about the establishment of legal State governments; it had no right to exclude any free citizen of those States from the duty of participation in the orderly and republican reconstruction of their local institutions; it made temporary provision for the maintenance of peace and order in the disorganized States by military authority, but in the same act directed all loyal citizens of such States to proceed forthwith in making governments for themselves. Slavery, with all its adjuncts, its peculiar privileges and its peculiar disabilities had gone forever; here lay the territory of ten States, States in area, States in population, States in everything but the possession of any legally existing form whatever of civil government, populated by twelve millions of citizens, all of whom had equal natural rights, which God gave them and which neither man nor man's government could take away, and none of whom, no not one, white or black, had in the extinguishment of his rebellion, any political rights whatever except such as he might hold under the Constitution and laws of the Federal Union. Not one State law remained extant and valid throughout the South, which could take political rights from one class or confer them solely upon another. Slavery and all that savoured of its curse had been blotted out forever. The removal of that great foundation made the entire fabric of municipal legislation, based upon its inclusions and exclusions of political right, to topple prostrate and indistinguishable into the dus.

Thus, then, the Congress of the united and loyal people approached this business. They came to deal with twelve millions of natural persons within their several State limits; they came to pronounce the extent and nature of what political rights they might, individually and collectively, enjoy and exercise; they came to say who should be voters and who not, in the preliminary movements toward the organization of their governments; they came to that question of the suffrage, and of eligibility to election by the suffrage, as a question entirely new—nova res—whereupon no local precedent was binding, no local law supplied any existing standard, and which could only be defined in accordance with the great fundamental principles of Republicanism and liberty. What a spectacle would Christendom have seen in an American Congress, sitting under the triumphant eagles of a Republican Union preserved at such an unspeakable cost, and proceeding to ostracise the loyal majority of these millions at the South, hearkening to the exploded prejudices of ignorance and brutality, disfranchising the friends and enfranchising only the enemies of the National supremacy, and, with a fatuity as short-sighted as it would have been violent in this era of Christ, disarming the Union in the hour and upon the scene of its dearly bought triumphs, by reinaugurating the inexcusable and pernicious theory of Privilege of Race! No, thank God! An American Congress had no right, and exercised none, to consider aught but loyalty and faithful submission to its requirements, when pronouncing the fiat which gave a political status to the citizens of the South. It found all loyal citizens, of whatever race or color, equally qualified; of these, and of none others, it made voters for the business in hand. It dealt with Georgia as it would with Ohio or Pennsylvania, rebel in arms, conquered, its municipal institutions self-shattered, and awaiting humbly, as becomes the vanquished, the reinauguration of its political existence by the conquering power; to us here, under the same circumstances, the Congress of the Union would impose the same conditions; it would recognize no distinction of class or race among our vanquished people, because none such are now recognized in the Federal Constitution; it would admit to the suffrage all loyal and submissive citizens, regardless of the distinctions previously known only to the municipal regulations which had passed away; that definition of the suffrage would complete its functions in the completion of the work of our reconstruction, and the whole question would again lapse legally and naturally under the control of our own new municipal regulations, when these had been thus provided, by virtue of our compliance with the conditions imposed. Then, and not before, we could, ourselves, once more organized into lawful States, dispose of all political questions, the suffrage included, as we might please. And this is what Georgia may do to-day. Not as she has attempted it, in a mode illegal and revolutionary, but by the orderly method of a Convention legally called and elected, and framing any republican Constitution according to the will of her people. Ohio or Pennsylvania, brought into the Union as Georgia has been, might proceed at once lawfully to revise that question of the suffrage, and would again settle it as it stands now. Georgia may do the same; she may hold a Convention to-morrow; she cannot restore slavery, but she can, if her people choose, confine the suffrage to the few, or confer it upon all. At that time and in that way, the question is wholly hers to control; until restored to this absolute power as limited only by the requirement of true Republicanism, and until that power shall be exercised after a lawful method, her municipal regulations must stand as they were created by the life-giving breath of the Federal Government. This, neither more nor less, is what the Party of the Union demands from the reconstructed South! This is all that reconstruction has accomplished. And it has been done so well that it can never be undone, least of all by the revolutionary violence with which BLAIR, HAMPTON and their compeers are madly dashing out the brains of a once respectable and great party against the immoveable and impregnable bulwarks of the Federal Constitution. Those walls are immovable because they are builded on the eternal foundations of Liberty and Justice; they are impregnable, because their ramparts are crowned by the might of twenty-four millions of loyal people, vigilant and courageous to defend them to the last.

We hold it to be clear that Congress had a lawful control over Reconstruction; that reconstruction was necessary for the peoples who had no lawful governments existing; that Congress might lawfully impose conditions; that the conditions imposed were in their essence just and right; that, as to the suffrages in the preliminary popular action, the only question for Congress to consider was not the race of the citizen, but his fitness for the trust, the loyalty of his motives, of his submission to the terms offered, and how far his exercise of the right would be compatible with the public safety; that reconstruction thus perfected remits all municipal questions to the people of each State; that, lawfully revised and amended as these may choose, the supervision of Congress is thereafter lawful only to satisfy the Constitutional requirement that all the State governments shall be republican in form; that each and all of the reconstructed states is the sole judge of the suffrage now, as absolute in the future as powerless to dispute the results which have preceded its restoration.

The Republican party demands only this—that the conditions imposed upon and now accepted by the late rebel peoples, as specified in the outset of this article, shall be ever held to be, as of right and in fact they are, a part of the Federal Constitution. They regard all the steps taken to secure this acceptance as no longer in question. They remit Negro Suffrage and all other questions of political rights to the States respectively, and these may dispose of them how and when they please, provided only that their action be orderly and lawful; they may adopt new constitutions every month if they choose, but they must and shall take for that only the lawful and orderly means. No rebellion, no violence, no anarchy shall be permitted. Here is where the BLAIR Democracy take issue with us. They say that they can abolish such existing institutions as are distasteful to them only by violence and revolution, only by the brute force of an army wielded regardless of laws and Courts by a Presidential Dictator. If this be their only remedy, the LORD help them, for their case is beyond human aid, past human cure. But they in fact have another and most accessible mode of relief. Let them educate and instruct the colored Democracy up either to the point of equal fitness to enjoy political privileges, or to that of contentedly resigning their present participation therein. If the negroes are not smart enough to know the value of their rights, they can easily be persuaded to surrender them; if they are too smart for this it is safe to make voters of them, and it only remains to imbue them with Democratic principles.

So much for reconstruction and its Democratic enemies.

A DEMAGOGUE IN DESPAIR.

General BLAIR is unfortunate in being a BLAIR in his politics. The Democracy are still more unfortunate in having been utterly debauched and ruined as a party by the fatal counsels which this reckless politician has been induced to represent, in the interests of the late rebel South. We would rather speak of him as a General, for his military record comprises all of him that is creditable as a public man. As a politician he was long since completely "played out" and shelved, with the rest of his family, by the disgusted friends of the Union.

His speech in this city on Monday night was plainly made with the hope of arresting the same sentiment of disgust which begins to pervade his new associates of the Democracy. Three years since, General BLAIR was so completely "used up" as a politician that nothing remained to him except the destruction either of himself or of his Republican associates. Attempting the latter, he has achieved only the former. It is true that he may flatter himself in the temporary possession of very doubtful honors, as a high candidate of that party which he once intensely hated, but it may be considered as certain as fate that these honors have been purchased by so base and shameless an abandonment of his former principles, by a surrender so unjustifiable and disgraceful to the Copperheads and rebels who use him and despise him, that his inevitable defeat will be followed, if he be still capable of the sentiment of shame, by the keenest remorse. Being a BLAIR, he may be above any weakness of that sort, but, if he were any body else, the sense of deeply irretrievable disgrace and self-humiliation which awaits him, would be crushing to the last degree.

Imagine the assurance of this demagogue, the audacity of his desperation, when he could stand up in Pittsburgh, even before the ignorant and brutalized men who composed a part of his audience, and tell them that "an army of over fifty thousand men, costing $150,000,000 every year," was now engaged in keeping the Southern whites in subordination to the blacks. He knew, when he said this, that not one-third as many soldiers were now stationed in the South, and that the total cost of the entire War Department this year is only $33,000,000.

Again, see how coolly he asserted that the National debt had been increased, and not diminished. "Every monthly statement has shown additions to our debt." He knew better than this, and must have known that every intelligent man who heard him knew it to be a falsehood, and that the Debt has actually been lessened by nearly three hundred millions of dollars. This deliberate mis-statement, with his equally false insinuation that the National banks derive "some eighteen or twenty millions" from the Treasury, paying nothing back, reminds us that he had better have stuck to his old idea that "all talk about greenbacks, the debt, banks and taxation is idle."

His declaration that the Supreme Court has decided the reconstruction acts to be unconstitutional; that the great body of the Southern whites were loyal at the beginning of the war; that the negroes were disloyal from its beginning to its end; that Gen. GRANT has continuously approved the policy of President JOHNSON, and other assertions which might be specified, were all equally gratuitous and discreditable to his intelligence and honesty.

We have to thank him for his re-endorsement of the Brodhead letter, and for the tissue of falsehoods and fallacious reasonings by which he sought to defend it. The country needs only to comprehend the full import of that remarkable document, and of the Democratic platform builded upon that as its corner-stone, and to know that such dangerous opinions are still maintained by the candidate who first propounded them, to be thereby advised of its own duties and amply prepared for the issue at the polls.

It is noticeable that the whole of his argument, based upon the alleged fact of the general loyalty of the Southern people in 1861, but that they were deserted by our own Government, (BUCHANAN'S,) and dragged by the conspirators into the rebellion for their self-preservatien, is entirely omitted from the written address which has been palmed off upon the public as the real speech by our Democratic neighbor of the Post. We are half inclined to forgive the unscrupulous audacity of BLAIR in his fabrications of fact, his puerile weakness of argument, and his shameless invitation of the people to anarchy and bloodshed, in consideration of the candid admission which the Post would not print, but which arraigned a Democratic administration as a guilty accomplice in the first rebellion. Here is testimony conclusive and upon authority not to be disputed by the Democracy, that every citizen should remember:

"The people of the South, the loyal men of the South, voted against these ordinances (of secession) at the very moment of time the Government of the United States were arming the conspirators of the South—the Knights of the Golden Circle—and furnishing them with arms out of the public arsenals, with which to put down the loyal men of the South who stood up for the government."

This is the public testimony of General BLAIR, the present Democratic candidate for the Vice Presidency, delivered in a speech at Pittsburgh, September 28, '68. For the present, we have no further use for the witness, unless he is impeached by his present friends.

A SLIGHT COLD, COUGH,

Or SORE THROAT may be checked if a reliable remedy is applied at once, but if neglected very soon preys upon the lungs, and the result may prove fatal. The past few weeks of changeable temperature and cold rains are fruitful sources of troubles of the lungs, throat and chest. If you are attacked by a cold, no matter how slight, use at once

DR. SARGENT'S COUGH SYRUP,

Which is an old and well tried remedy for COUGHS, COLDS, ASTHMA, BRONCHITIS, and all Affections of the Pulmonary Organs.

DR SARGENT'S COUGH SYRUP

Is entirely free from any deleterious ingredient, and can be given with perfect safety to the youngest child.

DR. SARGENT'S COUGH SYRUP

Gives sure and almost immediate relief to hoarseness and that annoying sensation, tickling, in the throat. If you would obtain a reliable remedy, be sure and call for

DR. SARGENT'S COUGH SYRUP.

If your Druggist does not keep it, ask him to get it for you.

WE ARE NOT CAST IRON.

Cast Iron undergoes marked changes under the alternate action of heat and cold, and the human body is not cast iron. On the contrary, it is a combination of delicate tissues and fibres, which are exquisitely sensitive to atmospheric changes, and, unless protected against sudden and violent variations of temperature by wise precautions, are sure to be disastrously affected by them.

At this season the difference between the temperature of night and day is greater than at any other period of the year, and the stomach, the liver, the bowels and the nervous system are apt to receive violent shocks from these changes, resulting in indigestion, bilious attacks, debility, low nervous fever, fever and ague, remittent fever, &c. Sustain and reinforce these organs, therefore, with the purest and most potent of all vegetable tonics and alteratives, viz: HOSTETTER'S STOMACH BITTERS. The effect of this matchless invigorant is to brace up the whole vital organization, and regulate its action. Useful at all seasons as a means of promoting perfect digestion, an even and natural flow of bile, and a healthy condition of the bowels and the skin, it is especially necessary in the Fall when the complaints arising from checked perspiration are so common. It is found, by those who are in the habit of using this agreeable and unequalled tonic, that it so strengthens and fortifies the body as to render it proof against the morbid influences which infect the air during the prevalence of epidemics.

DISEASED LUNGS.

There is no doubt whatever that diseases of the lungs, or ulcers of whatever sort, on any of the internal organs may be and are frequently cured, and a complete condition of health established. If the elaborative functions, of which the stomach is the primary and most important one, are restored to a condition to do the repairing of the human system, ulcers or sores, whether upon the lungs the liver, the kidneys or the bowels, or upon the legs, as is frequently the case, can be made to heal, and a complete standard of health re-established.

We have frequently seen these results from the use of Dr. KEYSER'S LUNG CURE, a pleasant and agreeable medicine, which will ripen up and carry out the animal economy all effete and used up material. Dr. KEYSER'S LUNG CURE is enriched by some of the most valuable plants and herbs known to be useful and curative in all deteriorated states of the human blood, and whilst it adds to its plasma, it at the same time stimulates, gently but effectively, the skin, the kidneys, the liver and the glandular system to sufficient action to enable the body to take on healthful action and eradicate the disease. The sick and afflicted should bear in mind the virtues of this great medicine, and if those who are sufficiently alive to the importance of health, will resort to it in the beginning of a cough or cold, there would be no falling into declines and rapid consumption, so hopelessly incurable, and so mostsurely fatal. Let any one afflicted with any pulmonary disease try but one bottle, and they will be convinced of the value of Dr. Keyser's Lung Cure. Sold by the gross, dozen or single bottle, at Dr. KEYSER'S Great Medicine Store, 140 Wood St.

A WELL informed journal in Georgia says: We now begin to see and feel that Georgia will go for Grant after all. He will get from forty to fifty thousand white votes. This, added to an overwhelming colored vote, together with the grit daily displayed by the Legislature, will do the work up nicely for the General. The State is now Grant-ed beyond a doubt.

At Elmira, N. Y., Monday, Isaac Statz, laborer, while attempting to prevent a party of ladies being run over on the railway, stepped on the track on which another train was coming from the opposite direction and was instantly killed.

NEW ADVERTISEMENTS.

THE GREAT

PACIFIC RAILROAD,

—receiving the aid and supervision of the Government, and carried forward by the extraordinary resources and energy of the powerful Corporations to which it was entrusted—is rapidly approaching completion, and it is safe to say that NEW YORK AND SAN FRANCISCO

WILL BE CONNECTED BY RAIL

BY THE FOURTH OF JULY NEXT.

More than two-thirds of the Through Line and Branches between the Missouri River and the Pacific Ocean are constructed, at a cost of nearly

ONE HUNDRED MILLIONS,

And the remainder is being pushed forward with unparalleled vigor. The Central Pacific Railroad Co.,

To whom belongs the Western and Principal Portion of the Main-Stem Line, receive from the United States Government,

I. The right of way through the Territories, with the use of timber and materials along the route.

II. An absolute grant of twenty sections per mile (12,800 acres,) of the PUBLIC LANDS on the line, the minimum value of which is now fixed at $2.50 per acre.

III. A special issue of U. S. Six Per Cent. Bonds, at the average rate of $35,000 per mile, delivered as the work progresses, which the Company are allowed to repay within thirty years, mainly by transportation services.

IV. Authority to issue their own First Mortgage Bonds to the same amount, having the preferred lien—superior to that of the Government.

V. It receives, in addition, donations and subsidies from the State and Cities of California, amounting to more than $3,000,000 IN GOLD;

Or an aggregate of Cash Resources for construction of more than sixty millions upon 725 miles, independent of the ten millions of acres of public lands, and further subscriptions to the Capital Stock. The early completion of the enterprise is therefore beyond all doubt.

This Company have already carried their road successfully across the Sierra Nevada Mountains, and are rapidly extending the track across the Salt Lake Plains, and have already a valuable way-traffic thereon. Besides a mileage upon all through business, this road, having the best lands for settlement, the most productive mines, the nearest markets, and being exempt from competition, will always command large revenues. The net earnings upon the completed portions are more than double the total annual interest liabilities to be assumed thereupon.

The undersigned offer for sale, and recommend to investors, the

FIRST MORTGAGE 30-YEAR GOLD BONDS
OF THE
Central Pacific Railroad Company,

Bearing six per cent. per annum interest, both principal and interest payable in

"UNITED STATES GOLD COIN."

These Bonds are the first lien upon one of the most productive and valuable railroad lines in the world—a line which will be finished within twelve months, and which is already earning, after paying operating expenses, more than twice the annual charge of its Bonded Debt. They are already widely known and esteemed in this country and Europe, and it is believed the remainder of the Loan will speedily be taken.

A limited amount will be disposed of at 103 Per Cent., and Accrued Interest, in Currency.

The Bonds are of $1,000 each, with semi-annual gold coupons attached, payable in July and January.

☞ The Company reserve the right to advance the price at any time; but all orders actually in transitu at the time of any such advance will be filled at present price. At this time they pay more than 8 per cent. upon the investment, and have, from National and State laws, guarantees superior to any other corporate securities now offered.

We receive all classes of Government Bonds at their full market rates, in exchange for the Central Pacific Railroad Bonds, thus enabling the holders to realize from 5 TO 10 PER CENT. PROFIT, and keep the principal of their investment equally secure.

Orders and inquiries will receive prompt attention. Information, Descriptive Pamphlets, etc., giving a full account of the Organization, Progress, Business and Prospects of the Enterprise furnished on application. Bonds sent by return Express at our cost.

Subscriptions received by Banks and Bankers, Agents for the Loan, and by ☞ All descriptions of GOVERNMENT SECURITIES BOUGHT, SOLD or EXCHANGED at our office, and by Mail and Telegraph, at MARKET RATES.

FINANCE AND TRADE.

OFFICE OF THE PITTSBURGH GAZETTE, TUESDAY, September 29, 1868.

Gold was steady to-day at 141, and quite a demand has sprung up for lots to pay for merchandise and other legitimate ways, which seems to have been the prime cause of the firmness of the market.

Governments were very dull to-day, and 1881's, 1862's, '65's, new, '67's, '68's and Ten Forties declined about ¾ per cent., whilst the market remained firm and unyielding in '64's and '65's.

The stock market is strong in Fort Wayne, Cleveland, Erie and the Express shares; the balance is dull and lower.

Money is more in demand, and business rather dull.

PITTSBURGH MARKETS.

OFFICE OF THE PITTSBURGH GAZETTE, TUESDAY, September 29, 1868.

Business in general seems to be looking up slightly, though there is still room for improvement. The demand, however, for most of the leading commodities of trade is restricted mainly to supplying immediate wants, and while there is a fair volume of business in the aggregate, the transactions generally, are of an unimportant character. The increased arrivals of Grain, Hay, and many other articles by river are beginning to exert some influence on our market, and when stocks begin to accumulate, lower prices will doubtless follow.

APPLES—In good supply and lower; we now quote at $2,50 to $3,50 per bbl.

POTATOES—Dull being offered freely at $1 per bushel and $3 per bbl. Sweets are also in good supply, and cannot fairly be quoted above $6 per bbl, except in a retail way.

BUTTER—Is steady but unchanged; sales reported at 38 to 40c for prime to choice packed and 43 to 45c for prime to choice roll.

EGGS—Fresh packed are held at 25 but as yet they go off very slowly at that figure.

SEEDS—Sales of Timothy Seed at $3,50 to $3,75, and Flax Seed is scarce, and in demand at $2,45 to $2,50. Clover Seed is dull and nominal at $8 to $8,25.

SALT—Dull; Allegheny River brands are still quoted at $1,75 to $1,80 to the trade and $2 in small lots.

HAY—Sales at Allegheny Diamond Scales of 67 loads at $30 to $40.

ONIONS—Firm, with sales at $4 to $4,25 per bbl.

PROVISIONS—Bacon unchanged at 13½ to 14½c for Shoulders; 16 to 18c for Ribbed and Clear Sides, and 20 to 21½c for Sugar Cured Hams.

TALLOW—Prime rendered is in steady demand at 12½ to 13c.

HEMP—Is quoted at $200 per ton.

FEATHERS—Offered at 75c on arrival, for live geese.

GRAIN—Wheat is quiet but steady at $2 to $2,10 for Red, and 3 to 5c higher for White. Barley is firm, with sales of good to prime Penna. and Ohio Spring at $1,90 to $2; sale of 1 car choice Canada at $2,10. Corn is quiet and unchanged; sale of 1 car prime Ear at $1,18—buyer sacking it. Oats steady, with sales on track and in elevator at 65 to 66c, and in store at 68 to 70c. Rye is steady at $1,40 to $1,45.

MILL FEED—Dull and unchanged at $1,10 for Bran; $1,15 for Shorts; $1,30 for Shipstuffs, and $2 for Middlings.

LARD OIL—Firm but unchanged at $1,20 for No 2, and $1,50 for No. 1.

FLOUR—There is no improvement to note in the demand, and prices are unchanged. Spring Wheat, $9 to $9,50 for good to choice. The "Pearl," "City," "Diamond" and other mills continue to quote at $10,50 for Extra Family, in barrels, and $10,20, in sacks; $11 for Double Extra Family, in barrels, and $10,70, in sacks. Rye Flour, $8,75.

Cincinnati Cattle Market.

CINCINNATI, Sept. 29.—Beef cattle dull at $2,75a6,25 per cental gross, with an ample supply. Sheep dull at $2,50a4,00 per cental gross. Hogs in large supply and prices lower at $7a9,75 per cental gross.

Chicago Cattle Market.

CHICAGO, September 29.—Beef Cattle dull and heavy, at $3a4,50 for common to fair ows; $5a6,35 for fair to medium, and $9,50 for good to smooth.

PITTSBURGH PETROLEUM MARKET.

OFFICE OF THE PITTSBURGH GAZETTE, TUESDAY, September 29, 1868.

CRUDE.

The Crude market is quiet and unchanged. Early deliveries seemed to have been entirely neglected to-day not a single sale reported, though prices are about the same as on Monday; we heard of offers to sell spot or October, sellers option, at 11¾, though as a general thing holders are asking 12. Sale of 2,000 bbls to be delivered between now and April 1st, seller's option, at 10; and we heard it intimated that there were more buyers for some delivery at that figure Offers to sell on cars at Oil City at $4,40, either for spot or October, which is considered equivalent to 11¾, here.

REFINED.

The Refined market was reported somewhat firmer to-day, which is supposed to have been occasioned by the fact that another "delivery" day is near at hand, and usually there are some "shorts," who from sheer force of circumstances, are compelled to go in the market and buy. Early in the day there was a sale of spot oil in Philadelphia at 30¾c, but later in the day, it is said, sales were made at a slight reduction. Here, we are cognizant of offers to buy at 30c, but there were no sellers at that figure. October was quoted at 30½—no sales reported. Sale of 500 bbls each for November and December at 29¼c. From the above, it will be seen that there is no perceptible difference between the market of to-day and that of yesterday, save that spot and October were a shade higher, and held with more tenacity, while the later months, as yet, do not appear to sympathize.

The Solar Eclipse.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE LONDON TIMES:

Sir--I am desired to inclose the copy of a letter from the captain of this Company's steamship Carnatic, containing a report of his observation of the eclipse of the sun on the 18th ult., in the belief that the description may interest some of your readers. I am, sir, your obedient servant.

C. W. Howell, Secretary.

PENINSULAR AND ORIENTAL STEAM NAVIGATION COMPANY, 122 Leadenhall street, September 12.

STEAMSHIP CARNATIC, SUEZ, August 28.

Gentlemen—I have the honor to forward you the following description of the eclipse of the sun, as observed on board of this ship, on the morning of the 18th of August:

"The position of the ship at the time of the first contact was latitude 16 deg. N., longitude 54 deg. 15 min. E., being thus twenty miles north of the northernmost limit of totality in that meridian. The eclipse was with us only partial, that portion of the sun's disc remaining unobscured being, however, only about one-sixteenth part of its diameter. Unfortunately, at the time of the first contact, the sun was obscured by clouds, which threatened to deprive us entirely of seeing any part of the eclipse. At intervals, however, we got very hasty glances of its progression, though so short as to prevent reliable observations being taken. At length the bank of clouds dispersed, and left a perfectly clear view of the eclipse at that stage, the sun having about two-thirds of its diameter eclipsed. At 7:10 A. M. the nearest point of totality had been reached, the altitude being 22 deg. 10 min. It was at this time our best efforts were directed for observing the phenomena presented. That portion of the sun remaining uneclipsed consisted of a narrow streak, in shape like a crescent of its upper left limb, in size about one-sixteenth part of its diameter. The light emitted from this was of a very peculiar character, and difficult to describe, being at the same time extremely brilliant, and yet most remarkably pale. The high sea running appeared like huge waves of liquid lead, and the ghastly paleness of the light thrown upon it and all around revealed a scene which, for i s weird-like effect, it would be as impossible to depict as it is to describe. The eclipse not being total (with us,) the corona was not visible. The first appearance noted by the spectrescope was that of sveral dark lines in the spectrum of that portion of the sun visible at its greatest obscuration, which was examined through a narrow chink with the instrument, as recommended by Lieutenant Herschel. The next appearance was a roughness on the concave edge of the crescent of sunlight left visible. This was well marked, and seen very plainly with the unarmed spectrescope; the rapidly increasing brightness of the sun prevented the prisms from being of much use except during the darkest part of the eclipse. Throughout, the rays between red and green predominated over those between green and violet. A small black spot was observed on the sun's disc, situated in its upper right limb, distant about one-eighth part of its diameter from its extreme edge. Contact ceased at 16h. 43m. 29s., Greenwich mean time. The only meteorological peculiarities discovered were that the temperature the day before the eclipse was unusually low, being 74° at noon, while on the preceding day and that of the eclipse it was 80° and 78° respectively. The direction, or force, of the usual monsoon wind was not apparently affected; the two only noticeable features being the extreme haziness of the horizon, with a clear sky, and the highly luminous appearance of the sea at night. The daily tidal range of scope than I have ever remarked before upon the day preceding the eclipse. The temperature of the sea during the eclipse was 75°, that of the air 77°, and barometer steady at 29.70°.

"I have the honor to be, gentlemen, your obedient servant,

"CHARLES G. PERRINS,
"Commander.

Vessel Burned in the Delaware--The Pilot Killed and Several of the Crew Injured.

The brig Sunny South, loaded with 114,450 gallons of benzine, valued at $20,619 cleared from this port on Friday, for Bremen, and reached a point a short distance below Chester, when the vessel was anchored in consequence of the storm which prevailed on Friday night. Capt. James R. Kelly, a resident of this city, and a well-known pilot was in command. Between nine and ten o'clock an explosion took place on board, and the entire vessel was soon in flames, and before morning her hull had sunk to the bottom. Mr. Kelly, the pilot, either jumped or was blown overboard, and it is supposed was instantly killed. When his body was recovered, on Saturday morning, it was found that one of his arms and both ankles had been broken. The captain of the brig, Mr. Bayley, and the crew were below at the time, but all of them fortunately escaped with their lives, though some of them were burned quite severely, and Mr. Bayley will probably lose an arm, The mate was also seriously injured. They were taken to Chester for medical treatment. The body of Mr. Kelly was brought to his residence in this city. The eldest son of the deceased died a few days since in New Orleans, and his body is now on its way to Philadelphia. Captain Kelly was extensively known throughout our city. He commanded the city ice boat for nine years, and subsequently had charge of the steamship Norfolk. He also commanded at times the steamships City of Richmond, Virginia, and the Alliance. It was stated that the explosion and fire occurred in consequence of the vessel having been struck by lightning but it is thought that the accident happened by gas from the benzine making its way into the cabin where there was a lighted lamp. The captain of the steamboat "Ariel reported that when he passed the scene of the accident on Saturday morning, the vessel was totally destroyed, and flames were seen issuing out of the water where the hull had sunk.—Phil. Ledger.

The Suez Canal.

Another great enterprise is near its completion. It is expected that the Suez canal will be open for vessels of the largest size in the course of October. Its depth is 26 feet, its width from 180 to 360 feet; its cost about $30,000,000, and it will shorten the navigation between Europe and India by about one half. It belongs to a French joint stock company, and its construction is due to the genius, energy, and persistence of M. Ferdinand de Lesseps, a grandson of Lafayette. Much of the excavation has been done by machinery, and where heavy masonry has been needed to guard the canal against the influx of sand from the Mediterranean, artificial stone has been manufactured for the purpose, out of sand and hydraulic lime. About 20,000 Europeans have been employed on the work, and are settled in new towns along the line. A vast number of Arabs have also worked at it irregularly. It has lately been visited by general Darling, of New York, who speaks of the enterprise with admiration, and regards it as certain to be successful. In connection with our Pacific railroad, it will revolutionize the carrying trade of the world.

The Ice Trade in England.

The London Times has a very interesting article on the ice trade. What is called the Wenham Lake ice is no longer brought from America, but from Norway. The passenger by the steamer from Hull to Christiania passes, about half way up the fjord, a small town, Drobak by name, where the ice is stored up during the winter, and whence it is imported into England. A few miles from Drobak is a very pure lake, fed entirely by mountain streams.

This lake and all the adjacent property have been purchased by the Wenham Lake Ice Company, who are careful that no drainage nor other impurity is allowed to contaminate the water. In this way they have attained for their ice the reputation of being the purest in the world, and in 1865, out of 44,823 tons exported from Norway, 43,359 came from the source above mentioned. When the ice is reaped a sharp ice plow divides the ice into squares, the sides of which are twenty-one inches apart; wedges are then driven in and the ice split into blocks, which are gathered into large houses built of pine wood, with double walls two feet apart, the space between being filled with sawdust. When stored, sawdust is strewn between each ice block, otherwise the whole would freeze into a solid mass. At the chief hotel in Norway, the Victoria, at Christiania, it is usual to place an enormous cube of ice on a silver dish in the middle of the table, and there it remains until it melts away, a process whose duration, of course, varie swith the temperature, but always lasts several hours.

The loss by melting is 50 per cent. before the ice reaches the English consumer. But the Norwegian ice is only a small portion of that which is used in England. Rough ice taken from the canals and ponds is stored up in enormous quantities by the fishmongers and the pastrycooks. Mr. Gatti, of London, who recently claimed compensation for the loss of his business by the removal of his premises, declared that he had made £4,000 pounds a year by the sale of penny ices alone. During the present season Paris has been largely supplied with glacier from Switzerland.

This is a great innovation, and perhaps the time is coming when Alpine peaks, hitherto valuable only for their pictorial beauty, will be valuable commercially. By means of ice fishermen are able to remain at sea many days together, instead of running into port after a few hours' fishing, as formerly. Animal food is now being sent to England from the Antipodes, packed in ice. Every year seems to increase the commercial value of this most solid but fleeting article.

Alleged Wife Beater.—Martha Barrett alleges that her husband, John Barrett, beat and abused her yesterday in a shameful manner. The parties reside on Pine street, and the accused was arrested and held for a hearing.

Selling Liquor Without License.—Johnston Poland made information yesterday against W. Clinton for selling liquor without license. The prosecutor is a police officer and the defendant is proprietor of a saloon in the Pittsburgh Diamond.

For Philadelphia.—All persons desiring to attend the Mass Convention at Philadelphia, on the 1st and 2nd proximo, are requested to meet at City Hall, at two P. M., to-day. Orders for transportation can be procured at the Hall up to 12 M.

Refitting.—The clock tower on the Sandusky street Baptist Church, Allegheny, is being repaired and repainted. The clock will also undergo a thorough overhauling. The whole when finished will add considerably to the external appearance of the building.

Escort.—By order of the County Executive Committee, the Grant and Colfax Banner Marching Phalanx of the Seventh and Eighth Wards has been designated as an escort to Stockett Matthews, Esq., from the Monongahela House to the place of meeting to-night at City Hall.

Child Run Over.—A little child of Mr. Toney O'Donnell, of South Pittsburgh, was knocked down and run over, on Monday, by a wagon belonging to Campbell & Co., glass manufacturers. The child was severely injured by the accident, but medical assistance was procured and it is now recovering.

Thanks—We acknowledge a graceful serenade from the "Marching Phalanx" of the Seventh and Eighth Wards Grant and Colfax Club, Capt. Samuel Kilgore, last evening, on their way home from the meeting at Hare's Hotel. The Company made a magnificent turnout and as usual presented an exceedingly handsome appearance.

Malicious Mischief.—Michael Matter made information yesterday before Alderman Taylor against Joshua Kaye for malicious mischief. The prosecutor keeps a saloon in the Ninth ward, and he alleges that the defendant came to the establishment and acted in a very disorderly manner by maliciously breaking four large panes of glass in the front window and tearing the summer door off its hinges. A warrant was issued.

Colonizing.—The opposition are busily colonizing in the city wards in order to bring out a full vote at the October election. We have the fact reported to us of the whereabouts of one hundred and fifty who arrived this week. Two-thirds of the number are located in the old Third ward, and will vote there if not carefully watched. They are spotted, and those arriving will find it an up-hill business to get the privilege of voting on such slight acquaintance.

Painful Accident.—John Wordly, residing on Ninth street, met with a painful accident yesterday morning. He was engaged in hoisting coal to the upper story of his residence, using for that purpose a rope and pulley. In the ascent of the bucket filled with coal, and when about half way up, the rope snapped, causing a rapid descent of the vessel and its contents, which alighted on his shoulder, inflicting a deep though not dangerous gash. The services of a surgeon to dress the wound were required. It will probably disable the injured man for some time, but no serious consequences are anticipated.

Our readers would do well to read carefully the advertisement of the Marathon Silver Mining Company of Nevada, which appears in our issue to-day. We are assured that the property of this company ranks with the best in the great silver region of Nevada. But a limited number of shares will be sold, and this of the preferred stock of the company, the by-laws of which guarantee 12½ per cent. yearly on the stock, until the par value is paid in interest. We consider this among the very best investments of the time. The interest which the stock draws upon its face, together with the prospect of large dividends to be divided among its shareholders, is an inducement that will at once take possession of the minds of capitalists, and there is no doubt that but a short time will elapse before the entire amount offered for sale will be taken. The price of the preference stock is $10 per share and not assessable.

The Allegheny Burglar.

Fred. J. Deitz, the Allegheny burglar, with whose operations our readers are familiar, was up for trial in the Court of Quarter Sessions yesterday. There were five indictments for larceny against him, lodged by different merchants of this city and Allegheny. On being placed in the dock he plead guilty to the charges, said "it was all so," and that he did not wish to give the Court any further trouble. The evidence would have been conclusive against him. This frank acknowledgement of guilt precluded the necessity of a formal trial, and he was accordingly remanded for sentence.

Fatal Accident—One Man Killed and Three Injured.

A serious accident occurred Monday afternoon at the bridge on the Allegheny and Butler Plank Road, near Gleushaw, by which Bernard Walker was killed, Dyonisas Bullion, John Wilson and John Shaw, Sr., injured, the former seriously. The men were engaged in removing the old bridge for the purpose of erecting a new one, when the old structure fell upon them. Walker was struck on the head with a heavy timber, his neck dislocated and died instantly. Bullion was severely injured in one ankle, his right arm and back, but it is thought he will recover. The others were but slightly injured. Dr. A. G. McQuade, attended the injured men.

An Absconding Clerk.

Benjamin Kroepel, a clerk in the clothing store of Messrs. S. Cohen & Co., corner of Third avenue and Market street, was left in charge of the establishment last week during the absence of Mr. Cohen in the East. An average amount of sales were made during the week, and on Saturday evening it is supposed that Kroepel had nearly one thousaud dollars in his possession with which he decamped and has not been heard of since. His employers previous to the dishonest act had imposed implicit trust in him, and had often placed the sole charge of the establishment in his hands. They cannot yet estimate their loss, as a quantity of the goods is missing. The amount, though, will doubtless be large, and the thief had abundant opportunity to exercise his knavish propensities.

THE POLICE OUTRAGE.

Mayor Blackmore's "Woman Order"—Trial of One of His Police for the Execution Thereof.

In the Quarter Sessions Court, on Tuesday, the cases of the Commonwealth vs. George Raubb, and Commonwealth vs. Peter Kellar, indictments for aggravated assault and battery, were taken up. These defendants, one of them, (Raubb,) a policeman, are the parties charged with committing the outrage upon the wife of Dr. Dake, a highly respectable lady, a short time since, the particulars of which must be fresh in the minds of our readers. The accused were indicted separately, but by consent the cases were tried together, before the same jury. The circumstances, or rather cause of the outrageous conduct of the policeman, arose from the execution of Mayor Blackmore's "woman order," His Honor having instructed his police to arrest all women found in the streets after certain hours as "night-walkers."

We will not give the evidence in the shape it was adduced, but will state the facts in the order of their occurrence. The witnesses called on behalf of the prosecution were Mrs. Dake, Wm. Taylor, a colored boy, Henry Freker, grocer on Seventh street, Miss Mary Kerwin, and the keeper of a cigar store in Strawberry alley, also several physicians.

On Saturday evening, Sept. 5th, about half-past eight o'clock, Mrs. Dake left her residence, 310 Penn street, in company with a colored servant, Wm. Taylor, aged eighteen years, her object being to visit a young woman residing in Strawberry alley near Smithfield street, for the purpose of employing her as a domestic. They proceeded by way of Penn, Hand, Liberty and Smithfield streets to the residence of the young woman, and whilst the colored boy knocked at the door Mrs. D. stood on the steps of a cigar store, a door away. The boy received no answer to his call, when Mrs. Dake stepped into the cigar store and left a message with the lady in attendance for the person whom she desired to employ. Noticing some women looking out from an upper window, she inquired of them concerning the young woman for whom she was seeking, and learned she was absent in the country. Before passing into Strawberry alley from Smithfield street the colored boy saw one of the defendants, Kellar, standing on the opposite side of the street, and also noticed him following into the alley and pass by while he (the colored boy) was knocking at the door of the house and Mrs. Dake standing at the cigar store steps. Attention was particularly attracted to Kellar by his movements. About this time Raubb, the policeman, came upon the scene, and seemed to be in company with Kellar. As Mrs. Dake was about to enter the cigar store she passed them, and felt a pressure upon her shoulder, apparently as if a hand had been placed rather heavily upon her; but thinking she might be mistaken, as nothing was said, she passed into the store, delivered her message, and while doing so noticed both the defendants enter, one of them purchasing a cigar. One inquired of a person present who that woman (Mrs. Dake) was, receiving no satisfactory answer. Mrs. Dake had directed the lady attending the cigar store to tell the young woman for whom she was in search to call at "Mrs. Dake's, 310 Penn street, on Monday, that she wished to employ her." This message delivered, Mrs. D. and the colored boy Taylor left the store, and passed out of the alley into Smithfield street, going towards Seventh. From the movements of Kellar and Raubb, they, Mrs. D. and her companion, were convinced they were followed, and were more or less alarmed. Before reaching Seventh street Kellar caught up to and passed between Mrs. D. and the colored boy. Reaching Seventh street, Mrs. D. turned the corner, when the colored boy reminded her that was not their direct way home, and that they would have to go round by the Fullman House to get up Seventh. She went on, being much alarmed, and intent for the time only on seeking a place where she might secure protection. When about opposite the Neptune engine house, on Seventh street, Kellar again passed between them, and a few steps further on they came to the grocery store of Mr. Henry Freker, which they entered. Mrs. Dake at once asked the protection of Mr. Freker from the two men who were following her. He replied that she could call the police. She next desired him to send a messenger to Dr. Dake, at 310 Penn street, stating also that she was his (Dr. D's) wife. At this moment Kellar and Raubb made their appearance inside the store, and Freker noticing that Raubb had a mace in his hand, also a star on his breast, said to Mrs. Dake "there is a policeman." Noticing the approach of defendants, Mrs. D. ran further into the store, passing between the counters, and then turning went to the door, where she was seized by Kellar and arrested. She protested to Kellar and Raubb, both of whom now seized her roughly, that they were mistaken, that she was the wife of Dr. Dake, 310 Penn street, and also made what resistance she could as they forced her from the store to the sidewalk. We may here state that none of the witnesses called, except Freker, supposed that Keller was a policeman, as he was not uniformed. He seems, however, to have worn a star under his coat and to have carried a mace. Kellar took charge of the colored boy, and Raubb seized Mrs. Dake. [The description by Mrs. D. of the manner in which she was treated by the defendants, coupled with her delicate appearance—yet suffering from the brutal treatment she received—excited feelings of the deepest indignation among the audience, and callous indeed would have been the heart not moved by the recital.] When arrested she resisted, of course, (who would not under the circumstances?) "nippers" were applied by Raubb to her left wrist, and whilst struggling Kellar called out "knock the d—— b—— down," and also used other vile epithets. As if stimulated in his brute force by this call of his companion, Raubb aimed a blow at his victim, which she avoided, but a second she received in the face. Not only was she struck repeatedly, but she was grappled by the throat and kicked, the brute Kellar, in her rear, using violence toward her while retaining hold of the colored boy. Mrs. Dake screamed and called loudly for help, but none came, and when she had been literally dragged down Seventh as far as Smithfield street, a large crowd of people had assembled, which greatly increased as the defendants proceeded with their prisoners along Smithfield toward the tombs. At Diamond alley Raubb called to his assistance officer Williams, to whom Mrs. Dake most piteously appealed for protection from the "villains" who had been so brutally abusing her, telling him also who she was. Officer W. directed Raubb to take the "nippers" from her wrist, also to release her entirely, and he (Williams) would conduct her to the Mayor's office. This he did. The plight in which Mrs. Dake appeared may well be imagined. The Mayor was in his office, and, after a partial investigation, in the presence of a highly excited crowd, he ordered Raubb and Kellar to be locked up, whilst Mrs. D. was conveyed to her home in a carriage. The colored boy was also released. Such was her condition, from the treatment she had received, that her life was considered in danger. Two days after her attending physician found her still confined to her bed, unable to move without assistance, her wrist bruised and blackened from the effect of the "nippers," and her lips much swollen from a blow in the face. She received other injuries, and she yet suffers from them.

Such was the case presented on behalf of the Commonwealth. We have not in the least exaggerated the facts as they were testified to, but on the contrary have abridged considerably.

For the defense H. P. Mueller, Esq., made a brief opening, stating that the sum and substance of the matter was his client, Raubb, had made a mistake—had bad luck, He (the counsel) only desired to offer some testimony as to character.

Mayor Blackmore was called. He testified he was at his office on the occasion when Mrs. Dake was brought there; he had remained longer than usual in order to give his police some instructions. In the examination he found the man Kellar had been in the fault—that he was the cause of all the trouble. Kellar had made a statement of the affair to him.

Counsel for prosecution objected to the Mayor giving the statement.

Mr. Mueller said he proposed to show that Kellar pointed out the woman (Mrs. Dake) and that it was upon his representation that Raubb made the arrest.

Judge Sterrett thought if this were so, it would not help Raubb. It could only operate in mitigation of sentence, and was no defense before a jury.

Mayor Blackmore, testifying in reference to Raubb's character as an officer, said all he knew was that he had been recommended to him by respectable persons, else he would not have been employed. The Mayor proceeded to state the nature of the instructions he had repeatedly given to his police as to their treatment of prisoners when under arrest, but said nothing concerning his "woman order," which might have been more relevant.

Captain M. W. Lewis, in charge of the police in the day time, was also called. As far as he knew or had observed, Raubb was an efficient officer; he was one of the "substitutes."

Officer Williams, whom Raubb summoned to his assistance, was also called for the defense, but testified to nothing material. His evidence rather aggravated the case of the defendants, if possible.

The case has not been concluded, and will be resumed this morning at ten o'clock.

Democratic City Convention.

Pursuant to a call of the Chairman of the Democratic City Executive Committee, self constituted delegates of the unterrified to the number of twenty assembled at the Court House, in the District Court room, at eleven o'clock yesterday. After a delay of over an hour, occasioned by preparing a list of delegates from the several Wards, the Convention was called to order by A. J. Baker, Chairman of the City Executive Committee, who delivered a short address, which many of the delegates thought entirely too long.

At the conclusion of Mr. Baker's harangue, he stated that the first business in order would be the election of temporary Secretaries.

C. B. Strain and Alex. Irwin were then chosen Secretaries.

On motion of John A. Strain, Esq., the roll of delegates which had previously been prepared by Mr. Baker, Mr. Keenan and others—who, without credentials from any of the wards, arranged the matter—was called, when eighteen answered to their names. Every man in the house, except the Chairman and the reporters, answered once. One gentleman seated in our rear responded promptly to six names.

On motion of John A. Strain, Christopher Magee, Esq., was elected permanent Chairman. Mr. Magee, on taking the chair, in a brief address thanked the Convention for the honor done him in calling him to preside. He felt, he said, as if this was the last great election the American people would ever participate in, and afterwards expressed a belief that the Democracy were going to be successful in the approaching contest. He had evidently had an introduction to Blair, the revolutionist, and feels confident that Frank is going to be elected, and carry out the ideas of his Brodhead letter. He need not let such idle thoughts trouble him, as neither of the dread calamities he mentioned are ever likely to be realized. After again expressing his thanks for the honor done him, he stated that the Convention was ready to proceed to business.

On motion, C. B. Strain, Alex. Irwin and John McClarren were appointed permanent Secretaries, and the remaining delegates, fifteen in number, were elected Vice Presidents of the Convention.

On motion of Jno. A. Strain, the thanks of the Convention were tendered to A. J. Baker, late Chairman of the City Executive Committee, for valuable services.

Jno. A. Strain, Esq., then moved that the Convention adjourn to meet at the Court House at two o'clock. The motion was decided in the negative by the votes of three men, who according to Democratic usage, voted loud and often.

It here appeared evident that there was an element of discord in the Convention, which we afterwards learned to be an objection to the Chairman by three or four of the delegates on account of his previous political status, as it was stated that he had been a prominent member of the Know Nothings.

John McClarren stated that in order to have an expression of the Convention he would move to adjourn to meet at two o'clock at the Democratic headquarters, Old Theatre. The motion was adopted.

AFTERNOON SESSION.

The Convention of the eighteen faithful reassembled at two o'clock, pursuant to adjournment. The same eighteen delegates were present, and the number was increased to twenty-four, by the addition of six stragglers, who are accustomed to sun their carcasses on the steps of the Old Drury, one additional reporter and five gentlemen as spectators.

The Convention was called to order by the Chairman when the following resolution was presented by John A. Strain:

Resolved, That we deem it inexpedient at this time to make nominations for city officers, there being a Citizens and Labor Reform ticket in the field, worthy of the support of all Democrats.

The resolution was unanimously adopted, the Vice Presidents, Secretaries, stragglers, speetators and reporters voting in the affirmative.

Mr. Strain moved to adjourn.

Mr. Keenan hoped he would withdraw the motion.

Mr. McCarthy said a motion to adjourn was not debatable and called for the question.

Mr. Strain consented to withdraw in favor of Mr. Keenan's motion, which was that the Chairman be authorized to appoint a City Executive Committee of which he (the President) should be Chairman. The motion was adopted by a majority vote.

Mr. Keenan moved that there be an anti-Radical ticket placed in nomination in each ward. Adopted.

The motion to adjourn was then insisted upon, and the Convention adjourned.

Slight Fire.

Yesterday morning an alarm of fire was struck from Box 25, of the Allegheny Fire Alarm, located near the old canal bridge, on Robinson street. The alarm was caused by the burning of the office connected with Craig's saw mill, on the Allegheny river, at the foot of Craig street. The fire department was on the ground promptly, and extinguished the flames before they had gained any headway. The loss was very trifling, but is covered by insurance. The fire is supposed to have originated from a defective flue, there being fire in the stove at the time, which had been kept burning for the accommodation of the night watchman employed at the yard.

Amusements.

OPERA HOUSE.—The Opera House was well filled last evening, and the attendance of ladies was larger than on any previous evening during the past week. "Midsummer Night's Dream" was presented in a very acceptable manner. The ballet, of course, is the principal feature. The dancing must be seen to be appreciated. The Carnival dance is particularly good. This is the last week of the spectacular, and it is not often an opportunity of witnessing such artistes as Morlacchi and Barratta is presented. It should therefore be improved

TERRIBLE DISASTER.

Locomotive Explosion on the Connellsville Railroad—Several Persons Injured—Death of the Fireman.

Between seven and eight o'clock yesterday morning a terrible locomotive explosion occurred on the Connellsville Railroad, at Armstrong's siding, near Eversons, Preston & Co.'s iron works, resulting in the severe injury of four men, one of whom subsequently died. It seems that engine No. 12, attached to the regular coal train, numbering sixteen empty coal cars, left the Ross Street Station in the morning at seven o'clock, in charge of Peter McGovern, Conductor, and John Kehoe, Engineer. The train proceeded as far as Armstrong's coke works, opposite Dam No. 1, where it was run in on the siding for the purpose of attaching some additional cars. While coming out from the siding the front wheel of the engine jumped the track, thus stopping the train. Steam being shut off, efforts were made to replace the engine. When all the necessary arrangements had been made, the fireman, George Gilmore, was directed to start the engine ahead. An instant after the steam was turned on, a terrible explosion occurred, making a total wreck of the engine and scattering parts of it in all directions. The concussion was so great that the entire train was forced back a distance of thirty feet, while that part of the locomotive remaining was forced forward and jammed against the rocks on the upper side of the road. The dome of the boiler was sent whizzing through the air, and fell with crushing effect on the roof of Mr. Robert Connell's residence, making a hole through the roof to the lower story and alighting in the kitchen on the cooking stove, completely demolishing it. The fire box was blown into the turnpike near the river, the piston rods, pumps and several flues, were scattered along the rocks on the hillside, one of the flues being found one hundred feet from the scene of the disaster, while another part of the machinery alighted on one of the streets on the top of the hill.

When the explosion occurred Gillmore was standing in the "pilot" house of the engine, and was blown a distance of thirty feet. He was picked up and taken into the St. Cloud Hotel, where the Surgeon of the road, Dr. Philips, attended him. His injuries, upon examination, were found to be of a terribly severe nature. His whole body was frightfully scalded, the flesh on the arms, breast and face being laid bare to the bone. His eyes were terribly scalded and he seemed to have inhaled a portion of the steam. Notwithstanding all that medical skill could do no relief could be afforded him, and after lingering in excruciating agony for several hours, death put an end to his suffering. Among those congregated around the engine at the time of the affair was Mr. George O'Donnell, engineer of the Monongahela Navigation Company's dredge boat. He was thrown with stunning violence against the side of the hill, sustaining a fracture of the leg, having his flesh considerably lacerated and sufferlng other painful bruises. He was removed to the residence of Mr. Connell, where he boards, and his wounds dressed by Dr. McCook, who considered them, though painful, not necessarily dangerous.

William Hutchisou, a brakesman in the employ of the coal company, who reached the engine just as the explosion took place, was scalded about the head and face, and was somewhat lacerated by having a piece of timber which he was carrying torn from his grasp. His injuries are not severe, though rather painful.

Thomas McGorem, the flagman, was blown over the embankment toward the river, but beyond a few slight bruises sustained no injuries.

The most fortunate of the employees was Mr. Kehoe, the engineer, who was stooping down at the time, and escaped without a scratch.

The injured men, a short time after the accident, were brought to the city in a special train and removed to the St. Cloud Hotel, on Ross street, where Doctors Philalleviate their suffering. Gilmore, the fireman, as we have noticed before, failed to survive. The others, however, have been made as comfortable as possible, and at last accounts were doing well.

No cause as yet has been ascertained for the explosion. The engineer states that he examined the gauges a few minutes before and found everything in proper order. The locomotive was comparatively a new one, and was considered one of the best on the road. It was used altogether for hauling coal trains, and was specially adapted for that work, having been built for the purpose.

Coroner Clawson was notified of the death of Gillmore, and impannelled a jury yesterday afternoon, after which the inquest was adjourned until Wednesday of next week. The deceased was a young man, had been married but a few weeks, and resided at Connellsville.

Distressing Suicide.

Joseph Dawson, a man about thirty years of age, employed at the oil refinery of Maj. Ben. W. Worgan, at Negley's Run, on the Allegheny Valley Railroad, yesterday committed suicide under very distressing circumstances. The deceased had been drinking to excess and brought on himself that terrible malady known as delirium tremens. In his madness he obtained a rifle and entering the yard fronting his residence, placed the weapon on the ground, resting the muzzle on his stomach and touching the trigger with his foot, sent his soul instantly to eternity. He died without a groan, the bullet tearing its way clear to the heart. His little girl, hearing the report, rushed to the side of her father to find him dead. Coroner Clawson will hold an inquest to-day.

In order to guard against the destruction of the poor fellow's life from violence at his own hands, as he had given out mysterious hints in that direction, Major Morgan yesterday afternoon preferred a charge of disorderly conduct against him before Mayor Blackmore, hoping to have him arrested and locked up till he became sober. An officer, McCurry, was entrusted with the warrant for his arrest, but arrived at his house fully an hour after the man had committed suicide. The deceased, when sober, was a quiet, industrious and intelligent gentleman, universally respected by those who knew him. His wife was absent on a visit to the country at the time of the dreadful occurrence.

A Boarding-House Thief.

William Jones was arrested yesterday morning by Lieutenant Curry and officer Irwin for stealing a trunk, a silver watch and a quantity of wearing apparel, the whole valued at $190, from a fellow boarder at the house of a widow lady in the First ward, Allegheny. Jones had been rooming with Ezra Castle, at the boarding-house, for a short time past. On Monday night Castle went into his room, but found his companion gone and the articles named also missing. Yesterday morning, while going down Smithfield street, Castle met Jones, and noticing the chain of the watch hanging from his pocket, laid hold on him and held him till the officers arrived. At the lock-up Jones admitted that he had taken the trunk and sold it for eleven dollars to a porter at one of the hotels on Grant street. The purchaser was found, but the trunk had passed from his possession into the hands of a shoemaker. That personage was discovered, and after some trouble gave back the trunk to its rightful owner. The thief is still in jail awaiting a hearing.

Oysters are now in season. They are served up in every style, in the cleanest and most palatable manner, at Holtzheimer's popular Continental Dining Rooms, Fifth avenue, next door to the Postoffice.

Page, Zellers & Duff make the very best window glass.

Enumeration.

But few persons have any proper idea of the great variety of goods embraced in the stock of a first-class hat, cap and ladies fur house. Who would believe that in the fashionable and extensive hat store which judiciously caters for the trade, over two hundred different styles of hats are stored away on the shelves and in drawers awaiting somebody whose particular taste, or fancy, may lead to their selection. These are of all shapes, of all materials, of all colors, from the snowy virgin white to the rich glossy black, of all sizes and of every height, from the graceful little nobby that sits so jauntily above the hyperion locks of the spruce dandy of the city, the reverently genteel stove-pipe worn by the nice young man, or the pious D.D., or the learned L.L.D., or the profound M.D. Then, too, we have the cassimere "plug" and the broad brim "slouch," which seem to say as perched on the saucy head of the b'hoys, "who cares?" These hats are studies; every style pleases some fancy, for no better index to the mind and character of the wearer is furnished than in the hat which tops off his dress. Then, there are not less than an hundred styles of boys' and children's hats and caps, a vast number of pretty and charming styles for ladies and misses, from the plain velvet to the elegantly trimmed mode de Paris hat, flaunting its gaudy feathery plume or bonny bunch of flowers, which, when placed on the head of the sprightly Miss, renders her bewitching to an extreme. Then, from the never exhausted theme of hats and caps, let us turn to the speciality which so largely enters into and forms part of the business. Go into the large representative hat, cap and Fur House such as Fleming's—and only Fleming's, in this section of country—and we find ladies' and Misses' furs of every conceivable color, shape, style, variety and size, and of all degrees of quality, from the Coney to the Hudson bay and Russian sable. Here we have the tiny little muff and collar for your little daughter who has scarcely commenced to count her age by years, to the large, full-grown muff and cape in which good grand-ma looks doubly loveable and dear. Let us not either forget to observe the beautiful contributors to gentlemen's comfort in cold weather in the way of collars, caps and gloves of brown Coney, Otter and Beaver, and all other variety of furs. Need we say that all these goods are essential to the well-being and comfort of society, and that they may all be found at the great first-class representative wholesale and retail house of William Fleming, No. 139 Wood street? And that in all the new styles and the best materials and makes, purchasers save from fifteen to twenty-five per cent. by making their purchases there? Readers will call at once, and without delay, to secure the best selection and greatest bargains.

"Dog-Commonest" Enterprise.

The Pittsburger Republikaner (Dem.) has arisen from its usual lethargy and has undertaken a tremendous piece of enterprise. In its Tuesday's issue it actually had translated three local brevities from the GAZETTE of Monday. If the Republikaner goes on like this it will need an extra translator soon. We are much obliged to it for its complimentary notice of us. It says: "The GAZETTE, the oldest and most influential organ of the Radical party in this county, a party which calls itself the party of respectability par excellence." Afterwards, however, it repents of this assertion and says: "The GAZETTE is the oldest and the 'dog commonest' Radical sheet here." The sarcasm, the withering irony of the Republikaner, the startling epithet "dog commonest" would really be quite blasting if we were not fortunately acquainted with the tremendous talent and energy of that sheet. As it is, we manage somehow or other to exist under this attack. We wait anxiously until the Republikaner has translated our report of Blair's speech, as we like to read ourselves in German. If the usual energy is evinced we may get it

Democratic Fizzle at Sodom.

The unterrified having, as will be seen by our editorial columns, met with disaster and defeat at Library, on Monday, adjourned to Sodom, Upper St. Clair township, (to the tavern kept by Isaac Rankin) expecting to hear one of the finest looking men in the party, James H. Hopkins, but to their chagrin no Hopkins was there, and a German, named Handel, attempted to do the talking, and what a speech! The meeting was then addressed by a young Mr. Williams. It was evidently his first effort, and as a friend we would advise him to let it be the last. He should apply to Burt for his grammar. Another meeting or two of the same kind will give us increased majorities. He called Grant a drunkard, a coward—one that sent his men forward and stayed behind drinking whisky and smoking cigars. Think of that, soldiers, and by a man, too, who was never near an army. Several Democratic soldiers present were utterly disgusted with his coarse rant, and will, in consequence, vindicate the fame of their old commander by voting for him.

Fast Driving—The Result.

Yesterday morning a gentleman, while endeavoring to cross Fifth avenue at its junction with Market street, was knocked down and run over by an ice wagon, which was being driven at a furious rate down Fifth avenue. The wheels of the vehicle passed over his face and head, making several severe gashes and otherwise injuring him. He was picked up and conveyed to a store near by, where medical attendance was summoned to attend him. The dashing Jehu seemed to think it too small a circumstance to be worthy of his notice, and unconcernedly drove away without diminishing his speed. It is said that he was previously warned against the practice in which he indulged, and if this be so, he should be arrested and dealt with according to the severest penalties of the law. When people have no sense, and will not learn by mild methods, harsher measures should be brought into requisition.
